Anxiety Disorders in Adults: An Evidence-Based Approach to Psychological Treatment

Source: Oxford University Press (OUP)
Author(s): McLean, Peter D.; Woody, Sheila R.
ISBN-10: 0195116259

The authors review the several classifications of anxiety disorders using the latest DSM-IV categories, covering specific phobias, social phobia, panic disorder and agoraphobia, obsessive-compulsive disorder, and post-traumatic stress disorder, among others. The chapters assess the efficacy of various treatments, and the authors conclude with a discussion of how treatment standards can be implemented in clinical training and practice.
