In today’s knowledge-centric, digital age, the Open Access publishing model enables the flow of peer-reviewed information for global consumption. Open Access content offers researchers and clinicians many benefits:

- Access to online, unrestricted research information produced by professionals from around the world
- Enables authors to publish scholarly research findings and share through a public forum
- Accelerates the research cycle, offering immediate access to additional and relevant findings
- Eliminates restrictions on disseminating these articles for education purposes

With OvidOpenAccess, users will get thousands of additional resources—at no extra charge—to information that will help them transform research, practice and education.

OvidOpenAccess Results - Search both subscribed content and Open Access content with a single search.
